

Year 4 - Topic Home Learning Tasks, Summer Term Week 10

General Tasks

Remember to keep up with reading, both silently to yourself, but also regularly out loud to someone else, in order to practise expression and flow.

Continue to practise your times tables, using a range of online games as well as getting an adult to test you orally. Remember to aim for answers within 6 seconds and without using fingers!

Literacy and Maths tasks will be sent on a weekly basis, on a grid like this. We will also be setting Mathematics tasks and checking them often. Have a go, but please do not stress if you find any of them too hard. Lastly, continue your workouts with Joe Wicks.

Science:

We would like you to research an animal that is extinct. Can you find out what happened to make it become extinct, when it became extinct and if there are any animals around now that are similar to it.

PSHE:

It is important to look after yourself both physically and mentally (your well being). We have talked about acts of kindness towards other people but it is also important that you are kind to yourself!

We would like you to make a list of things that you do for yourself that make you happy. It could be anything, e.g. sleep with your favourite teddy, feel proud of your achievements or treat yourself to things you like.

Geography:

We use land for many different things:

- Agriculture (farming)
- Business (offices)
- Leisure (cinema, swimming pools etc)
- Housing
- Industrial (factories)
- Retail (shops)

Think about the place where you live. Write examples of the different land uses there. Are they all used? Can you find out any information about them, such as when they were built?

French:

Using the sheet below, can you match up the animals and their name? You could either cut them out and stick them onto paper, or draw them and write the name. You may need to look a few up!

RE:

A pilgrimage is a special type of journey, usually a long one for many people, to a special place that is important for religious reasons. These special places are considered sacred (connected with God or a god). They are different to places of worship (such as churches or temples) as they are considered to be important by everyone in the religion.

We would like you to write about a special place that you have travelled to and why it is special. It may be somewhere local to you that you and your family like to walk to, it may be a holiday that you have been on or you could even describe a place that you would like to go to but haven't yet.
